Maven Documents and Kingston Technology

How Maven Documents helped Kingston Technology to generate Excel documents with more than 1K rows

Multinational computer technology corporation that develops, manufactures, sells and supports flash memory products, other computer-related memory products, as well as the HyperX gaming division.

The Challenge

- ✓ The substantial size (measured in thousands of rows) of business documents that needed to be generated posed a challenge to find a solution that can support required size, applied business rules functionality and performance requirements
- ✓ Lack of automation of document generation and dynamic email creation for the documents made distribution cumbersome and time-consuming
- ✓ The need for email preview before distributing generated files required a solution that seamlessly integrates with Salesforce and facilitates pre-distribution review

The Solution

- ✓ All the needed Excel documents are now generated dynamically for the large volume of data
- ✓ Being Salesforce native, Maven Documents enables seamless integration with Salesforce functionality like Email Preview and automatic Email attachments
- ✓ Extensive Price Book and Quotes are generated with complex conditioning requirements to support design guidelines
- ✓ Fully automated process of document generation, email preview and document distribution resulted in reduced time and efforts spent

What Kingston Technology team says about the experience

We are incredibly impressed with the transformative impact Maven Documents has had on our document generation process. Their dynamic solution efficiently handles our extensive data volume while seamlessly integrating with Salesforce, providing us with invaluable features like Email Preview and automatic attachments. The system's ability to fully automate document generation and distribution has significantly reduced our workload and enhanced our productivity. We highly recommend Maven Documents to any organization seeking innovative solutions to streamline their operations. "
