

Streamlining and unifying document generation across diverse brands in the staffing industry

“Since we work with several brands in our company and therefore with nearly 400 templates on a daily basis, I can highly recommend Documill.”

Customer Profile

The customer is an engineering and IT service focused staffing company based in Germany with 210 employees and 26 ME in revenue.

Challenge

- Faced significant challenges in automating the production of branded business documents due to complex organizational structure
- Various business units operating independently, each with a unique brand and processes, making the creation of consistently branded documents time-consuming and error-prone
- Strict visual document layout requirements and complicated Salesforce data structures increased the complexity even further

Documill's Value

- Replaces home grown tools with a single click solution inside Salesforce, streamlining the entire document generation process across the organization
- Templates with powerful logic accommodate the creation of varied business documents including offers, employment certificates, contracts, candidate profiles, etc.
- Combined over 400 templates into one easy-to-manage document automation solution

Documill's impact

- On brand, high-quality, pixel perfect documents, adhering to the customer's brand guidelines
- Simplify process and save time for Salesforce admins
