YOUR SUCCESS

We understand the intricacies that are a part of the Salesforce landscape, but we also can testify to the potential benefits of leveraging all the parts and pieces to achieve specific transformative goals. We work with you to formulate those goals, and then we partner with you to ensure that you achieve the desired results. In short, our services are designed to support your best efforts, boost self-reliance and produce high-quality outcomes. We reach across all operations, with hands-on experience, in order to confront technical issues, define strategies, and forge new paths that lead to lasting success.

“Our team is fully qualified to support specialized and specific solutions,” according to President Mark Lum. He notes that the support team’s focus is always on costs, collaboration, process improvement, and efficiency, beginning with the necessary analysis of existing processes, systems, and strategies, and then establishing an educational, informational, and collaborative training plan.

Mark Lum and his business partner Kumar Agarwal have developed a program that caters to the needs of today’s business leaders across a range of fields, from product manufacturers to industrial distribution, financial services, energy, hi-tech, and numerous others. The potential for growth and development, cost-savings, efficiency, and strategic marketing enhancements is virtually unlimited, says Lum, with the ability to fully utilize and integrate the solutions offered by a transformative platform like Salesforce. “However,” he adds, “we understand that gaining that kind of expertise requires a plan, determination... and some grit. That’s where we come in, and that’s what we do best.”

THE PROCESS

The full value of the Salesforce platform can only be realized, according to Lum and Agarwal, when a client is able to quickly resolve technical issues and arrive at a place of “comfort” that allows staff to get down to the business of learning and adapting procedures to their individualized needs. CLOUDSTREET offers Salesforce staff augmentation, critical services designed to help you grow your team, and maximize platform benefits. CLOUDSTREET provides a unique lower-cost hybrid approach to resourcing with USA based project managers working virtually alongside India based developers.

We have the ability to customize Salesforce so that it performs in the best possible way to fulfill your business needs, and we provide the instruction and assistance necessary to pivot to new program features and services. CLOUDSTREET is available every step of the way to assist you with expert advice, unique tips, and maintenance strategies. And our team is always available when you encounter difficulties or have questions. And we do mean always, 24-7, every day of the year. We understand the urgency when you’re looking for answers, and we have the ability to respond to you in unique ways.
