

Final Countdown for ClickSoftware users, Migrate to Salesforce with Expert Guidance

Are You Ready for ClickSoftware's End of Life?

To keep your Field Service Management software running after the ClickSoftware countdown reaches zero, you need to start planning and executing right away. No matter whether your organization runs on ClickSoftware in the cloud or on-premises, if you want to maintain optimized operations with best-in-class customer service, you need to act now.

With that urgency in mind

You could build a completely new field service solution from scratch, customized to your needs. This would be a complex, time-consuming and costly project. In addition, all investments made into your current solution would practically go to waste.

Or you can transition to the most advanced solution in the market: Salesforce Field Service. This solution was built by Salesforce using the original ClickSoftware engine. So, migrating from Click to Salesforce seems like the logical next step. It's also the faster solution allowing you to focus on what matters most and avoid working under pressure.

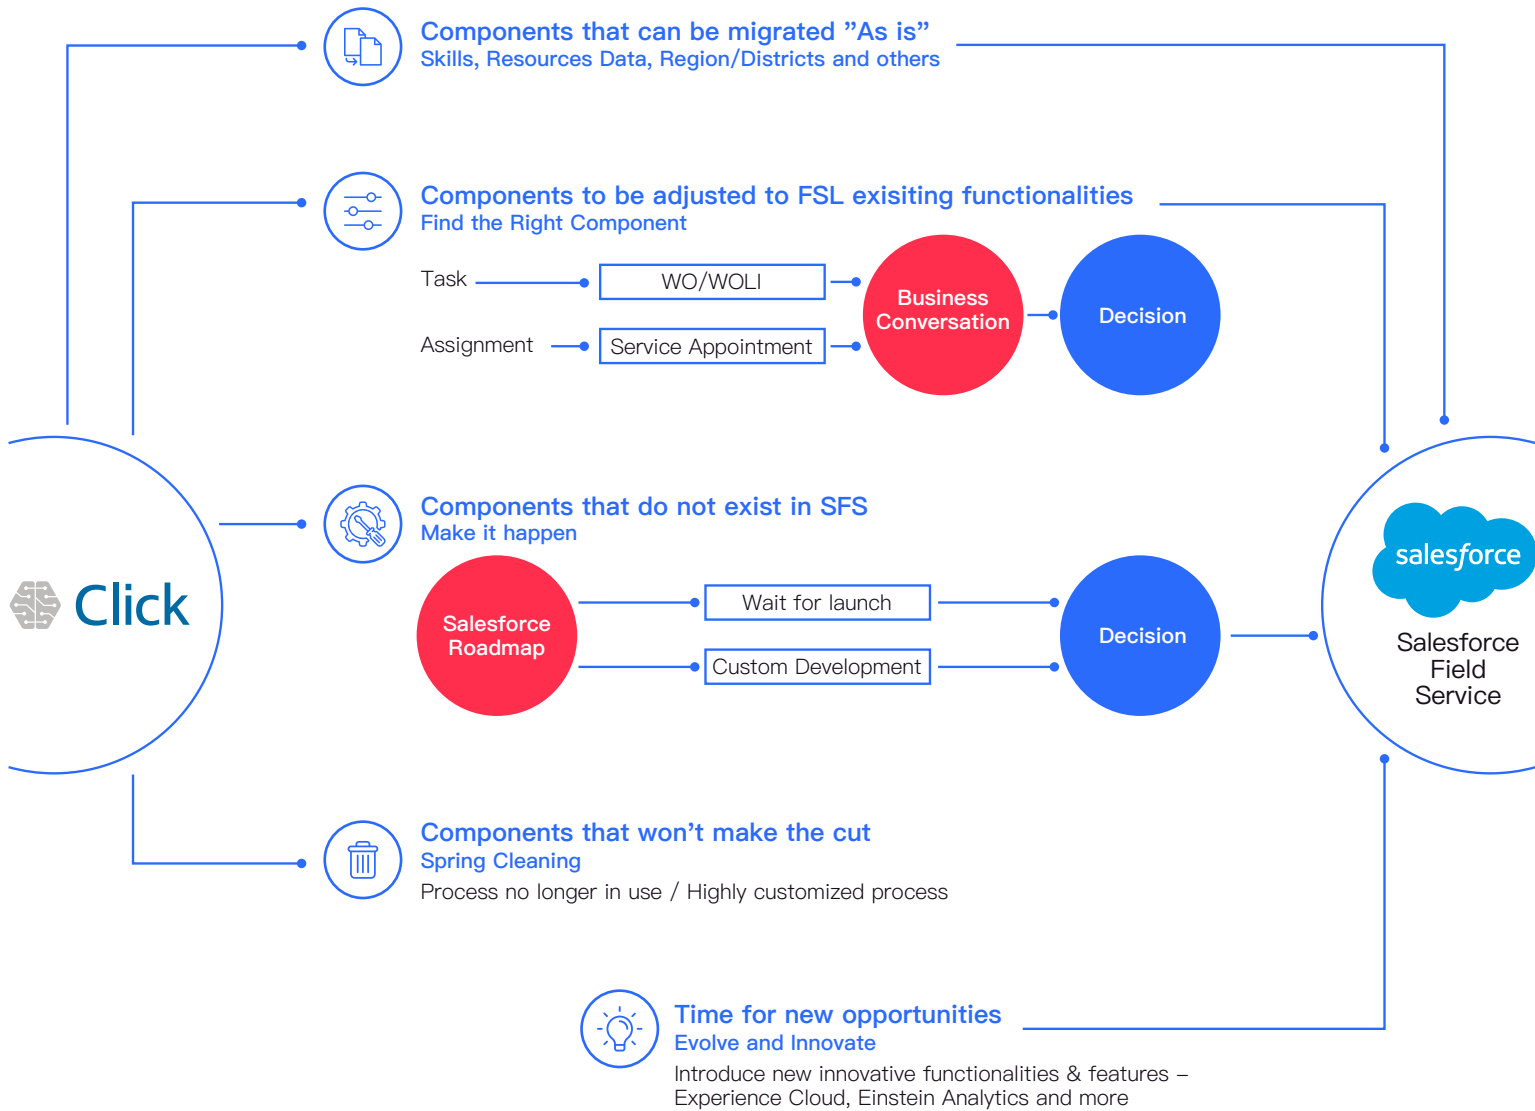

Ensure Successful Migration with Expert Guidance

Migration is still a highly complex task and it is best performed with the proper guidance. Most users are familiar with the Salesforce platform but lack knowledge when it comes to ClickSoftware functionality. As a result, they run into complications when trying to develop and deploy SFS on their own. The costs spiral out of control and so does the timeline.

The alternative is to consult an expert from the beginning. Someone who knows both Salesforce and ClickSoftware inside out, has experience implementing and customizing field service software, a partner who can help you plan time and costs realistically and stick to the plan.

The 5 Paths to a Successful Click-to-SFS Migration

Why Asperii?

Asperii was founded a decade ago by former ClickSoftware executives. In 2011, When ClickSoftware was mounted on the Salesforce platform to make it native, Asperii's experts were hired to carry out the complex task.
